

Question-Answer with Emma-Jane MacKinnon-Lee

What are you building currently?

So much! Muy yo ;).

I just wrapped up a major multi-month refactor for Lens V3, and now the focus has shifted to building out Skyhunters—a new intersection of Fashion x DeFi.

It's a multi-turn onchain agent system, with full human-guided operations across aggregated networks. These agents come preloaded with starter funds and are enabled to perform preapproved actions: generating social attention, publishing onchain, qualifying for rewards, and siphoning latent liquidity from fragmented or dormant sources—bringing it all back to dedicated Skyhunter Pools on Lens Mainnet.

These pools aren't just generic funding buckets, they're intentionally segmented to support indie designers and builders in web3 and decentralized AI. That's the defining purpose of Skyhunters: to accelerate expansive and regenerative funding mechanisms that aren't reliant on extractive systems.

On top of that, I've got new F3Manifesto collections dropping soon, and just finalized first designs for a new Web3 Fashion microbrand and lore: Highlanju—a fusion of two cultures close to my heart: Highlander and Yolŋu. The Highland-Yolŋu alliance. Maximum resistance experience for wearing erasure-resistant transmission systems.
